

Equature Armor

Equature Armor operates on Android smartphones and provide live streaming video and audio connectivity from law enforcement in the field to an officer's dispatch center, the patrol supervisor, or other law enforcement leadership.

Through real-time data intelligence collection, officers and their command centers are able to see and hear emergency calls as they happen.

Equature's evidence management platform allows police agencies to store, tag, manage, transfer, redact, track, retrieve, quickly search, deliver, and share critical data by authorized staff members.

Using a hybrid model for evidence storage, Equature offers police departments options for evidence management stored in the cloud or on-site (at your premises).
